A film about two generations and their activism.
A film about resistance.

Climate change, refugees locked up in detention centres, the rise of the far right - 'Jenny' & her group decide they have to take action. But Jenny has no idea what her parents were up to when they were her age.

Jenny finds out, just when the police are closing in on her and her friends. And she discovers that there's more connecting her to the alias she's chosen than she imagines.

Come along for a screening of "Codename Jenny" (Deckname Jenny) and a discussion about radical activism in today's world.
