

Climate change, refugees locked up in detention centres, endless wars and the rise of the far right – enough to get angry about. But apart from a few half-arsed protests, nothing happens. Jenny and her friends decide to take action.

But as the state starts coming down on the group, Jenny's dad is confronted with his own militant past and has to take sides & the meaning of code name "Jenny" becomes ever more blurred.

A film about two generations and their activism.

7 pm Friday
7 December

Aro valley
Community hall

Join us for the film
& discussion afterwards.